Government Guides on the Internet

The Victorian Government has produced many authoritative guides to their services on the Internet. These provide invaluable sources of information
Here are just a few that could be of use to you on the Information Desk.

Better Health Channel

<http://www.betterhealth.vic.gov.au>

Quality, up-to-date and locally relevant information on your health.
A local health services directory can also be searched.
(link found under Health in the Reference Bookshelf)

Business Channel

<http://www.business.channel.vic.gov.au>

The Business Channel significantly improves the accessibility to business related Victorian, Commonwealth and Local Government information and services. The Business Channel organises information from the perspective of the business owner, rather than government.

Victorian Education Channel

<http://www.education.vic.gov.au>

The Victorian Education Channel is provided by the Department of Education, Employment and Training. It is a Government Channel providing enhanced public access to the widely recognised education information, resources and services available. For clients within the Victorian Education system it provides a path for the discovery of high quality educational resources suitable for learning in Victoria.

Land Channel

<http://www.land.vic.gov.au>

The Land Channel is the one-stop internet shop for government information about land and property. You can search your land title online, check your land measurements on Vicmap display, and find answers to your questions on buying, selling, renting, building or recreation. Land Channel gives you speedy access to other land-related information, as well

Legal channel

<http://www.legalonline.vic.gov.au>

The Legal Channel is your first stop for practical information about the law. Dividing into ten categories such as Driving, Work and Business and Relationships, you can easily find information covering hundreds of legal topics.

Go for your life

<http://www.goforyourlife.vic.gov.au/>

The Victorian Government recognises the importance of working to increase levels of physical activity and healthy eating, promote stronger communities and address the rising prevalence of obesity and diabetes. You'll find hundreds of ideas on this site as part of the Go for your life campaign.
